COMMANDER CARLE FINISHES TERM

Prominent Janesville Vet Responsible for Getting G. A. R. 1924 Camp.

His work as a commander of the Wisconsin Grand Army of the Republic completed with the adjournment of the last session of the 1923 encampment at Oshkosh Thursday, James F. Carle, returned to Janesville after a week's absence. Next year the Janesville Grand Army men will not go to another city for the encampment for through the efforts of Mr. Carle the 1924 meeting will be held in Janesville.

Without a dissenting vote the encampment was voted for Janesville. Invitations had been extended by Superior, Stevens Point, Eau Claire and La Crosse when Mr. Carle arose and extended to them the invitation to meet in this city and told them of the advantages this city offers.

Capt. Henry of Eau Claire made the motion that the G. A. R. meet in Janesville in 1924 and one after another seconded the motion and it was carried unanimously with a shout.

Mr. Carle's popularity with the gathering rose to great heights during the convention and the platform on which he sat was banked with bouquets and flowers. His speech was one of the best of the convention and which he turned over to a hospital. His re-election was assured but he declined, proud of the honor but firm in his stand that it was sufficient that one man hold the office but a year.

An Oshkosh newspaper says of Mr. Carle's speeches: "Poetry, epigrams and heart gripping words dropped from his tongue with ease that marks the finished orator."

Heinrich, again named. E. B. Heinrich, of Lake Mills, formerly of Janesville, was re-elected assistant adjutant, a position which corresponds to secretary of other organizations. Mr. Heinrich will be of assistance to the Janesville committees in arranging next year's encampment.

Mrs. Sadie Carman, head of the Janesville W. R. C., has been elected office of the State Woman's Relief Corps by five votes, Mrs. Sylvia Mark, Virgo, being re-elected.

There was a delegation of 16 men and women from Janesville. City Will Be Ready. The dates of the 1924 encampment have not been set, but will be decided in February. Usually it is the second or third week in June dependent upon local conditions.

Remarks on the selection of this city for the 1924 G. A. R. encampment Oscar N. Nelson, manager of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce said: "We will show them that they have overlooked a good bet for a good many years and with the splendid civic spirit prevailing here we will put it over in a big way."

Dokey Program. Nets Bands $125. The Dokey entertainment at the high school Monday night, given free for the high school bands by the Dokey sextette, Beloit, netted more than $125, to go into the uniform fund. Conducted by Jack says: "The entertainment was a public one, and response was only fair. Bands plan to give other entertainments in order to raise the required $1,200 for uniforms as soon as possible."

With Mr. Jack leading them, combined bands played on the street before Elks' headquarters Thursday afternoon giving a fine display. The occasion was flag day, and the same bands played for Elks' observance that evening.

Summer instruction in hand work will start next week with Mr. Jack remaining here all summer for it. For the senior high, the hours of 1-4 p. m. on Thursday will be devoted to instruction, and on Friday the same days for those unable to come during the afternoon. All Junior hand members and beginners will take their instruction from 9-12 p. m. Friday, and Tuesday night 7-9 p. m. there will be ensemble practice for all members of all three bands. This service is conducted by the Rotary club.

A., there will be a full program of talks and toasts, with reminiscences of old times in the old high school building. "Toe-tasting" orchestra, Chicago, will furnish the music.

"Driven," the colorful and dramatic production coming to the Apollo next week, carries a tale of mountain folk of the southern mountains, of moonshining, and feuds. The mother-love theme enters in a strong way in the climax when the mother betrays the moonshining father and his gang in order to save her son and his sweetheart, who escape to the city and happiness. Charles Mack, formerly a

Jackson Inspects Summer Projects

School work in all academic subjects stops as soon as the school closes, of course, but nature does not, and students of agriculture having live projects, on which to carry out their learnings, must work all during the summer to keep the animals and plants alive.

In order to help the boys—and some girls, too—in this work, L. J. Jackson, agriculture instructor, is preparing special information and will spend the entire summer at his office here and out about the county, visiting boys and girls with projects, aiding them.

"Hog Raising" is the title of an information sheet Mr. Jackson worked on. These pigs, the boys are to be developed for breeding purposes and so must have plenty of feed which will produce bone muscle, plenty of size and vigorous condition, not a fat, market condition. A ration table follows, giving feed and proportions of it.

different women—one who married for riches, another who married for love, and the third, whose great reward came through devotion. Hazel Dawn, a noted actress on the stage, has the leading part and her beauty and the beauty of the whole production will make it enjoyable.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Rustle of Silk," playing at the Majestic three days, starting Sunday, marks the first of the series of new Paramount productions that will be shown at this playhouse during the summer. It is one of the newest pictures and reports on it are commendatory. The story is of a high English life, of the love of a little French maid for a young man struggling for a name in parliament. How enemies of his find and inventing evidence against him, and how in the end, he is saved by the girl, furnish an unusual plot, and the excellent actors will make it worthwhile entertainment. With this picture, starting a new policy at the Majestic, there will be an orchestra. "The Tri-City Four," which has recently been playing at houses in Beloit and Rockford. It is not a dance orchestra, but plays music appropriate to the various moods of the picture. It will be there every night and Sunday matinee.

"Gimme," was written and directed by Rupert Hughes and carries all that keen insight in American customs and traditions that makes all Hughes pictures interesting. The story has a marriage theme, unusually developed. In the cast, in addition to Guston Glass and Helene Chadwick, both stars, are Eleanor Boardman, who will be seen later as star of the sensational "Scouts for Sale," and Henry R. Walthall.

"Broken Chains" for the week-end, is from the story given a huge prize by a Chicago newspaper in a nationwide contest. It has an appealing story of the making courageous of a man who had been called a coward in his own society in New York. The picture has a mountain locale and a fine cast.

UNIVERSITY TAKES MANY OF '23 CLASS

Others/Going to Badger Colleges—Large Number to Continue Studies.

An unusually high percentage of high school graduates from the June, 1923 class, will attend higher institutions, 70 out of the 88 planning to attend some school, and probably even more than that will go.

The University of Wisconsin, as usual, claims the largest number, with 22 going, out of just the one class. They are John Bolender, Maurice Clark, Clifford Conry, Leroy Dickinson, Joseph Eckstein, Adele Ester, Evelyn Finch, Elsie North, Gitchell, Kenneth Gover, Esther Hodge, Virginia Howe, Genevieve Hughes, Stuart Hummel, Fern McConner, Kenneth MacFarland, Harold Miller, Ray Stanton, Lyle Seaman, Esther Stone, Dorothy Thomas, Harold Wixom and Eugenia Young.

Badger Colleges Take Some.

Other Wisconsin colleges claim many of the graduates. Thomas A. Cunningham, Harold Cunningham, Leon Lodge, Ray Leary and J. Edward Schmidley are planning to go to Marquette; Lawrence Benson, Lawrence Gleason, Terpis Hitchcock, Ronald Galbraith and Albert Meek will all go to Lawrence college, Appleton. Marvin Flynn will enter Carroll. Florence Smiley plans to go to Milton college, Elizabeth Capelle, John Holmes, Arthur Kemmerer and Philip Laskow, Beloit. Ellen Dixon and Margaret Ridley will go to Milwaukee normal.

Local schools will also be well represented.

resented, with Clara Duoss, Margaret James and Doris Pederson entering Rock county training school; and Hazel Buss, Mildred Graham, Catherine Grant and Margaret Wright entering Janesville Business college.

One to California.

Graduate to go the farthest away to school, perhaps, is John Taylor, who will enter the University of California. He and his parents are moving to that state this month.

Other schools to be represented by Janesville graduates are First Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, Irene Gardner; St. Olaf's college, Minn.; Mabel Johnson; trade school, George Rasmussen; Rockford City hospital, Dorothy Snyder; Cargus, Chicago, Charles Campbell; Northwestern University, Evanston, Maud Jeanette Crabtree; Marion Hemmens.

Several graduates of the January class have been working or otherwise spending these weeks in the city, and will start school in the fall, the majority of them also, to enter the University of Wisconsin. Graduates are planning interesting vocations, and three will move from the city. Dorothy Hansen, her brother, Donald and sister, Lenore, will leave June 21 for San Francisco where they will live. John Taylor is going to California and Donald Blackie will move to Chicago, where his parents now reside.

Harold Hill will go to Spokane, Wash., to visit his father and will probably return here in the fall. Lawrence Benson will join a party making a tour of Colorado; Lucille Roscoe will go to Indianapolis and will later take up nursing in Chicago. Helen Louise Wilcox and her parents will go to Elmira, N. Y. to visit relatives; Beth Nurse will go to Cleveland; Margaret Ridley will go to Boston representing a local Baptist church organization; and Mildred Graham will visit Niagara Falls.

Shorter trips will be taken by Lawrence Gleason and Clifford Conry, to visit the northern part of the state, and Betty Capelle, who will visit in Milwaukee.

CLASS OF 1923 HAS EVENTFUL HISTORY

One of the Most Distinctive Classes Ever Given Diplomas—Ganfield, Speaker.

One of the most distinctive classes that has ever spent four years in the high school, passed out of it Friday night, as 55 students were handed diplomas by Mrs. Helen Sutherland, first woman president of the school board. More than 1,400 people packed the huge auditorium for the event, and the whole program was given with such ease and the snappy that made it different from the provincial commencement exercises.

It was Mrs. Sutherland who expanded on the unusualness of the class, and was the first one to graduate from the new high school, as it was the first that spent actual time in the building; it had an experience of appreciation of the new building that no other class to follow will ever have. Three and one-half of its four years were spent in the old building, when the city found itself, as Mrs. Sutherland said, "in a shoe." She had so many children she didn't know what to do; it presented to the high school the largest gift ever given; it presented the first play on West Center street at 3 p. m. Friday, after several months' illness with cancer. He was born in Edgerton, March 2, 1887, and has been a lifelong resident. He saw service with the 21st Infantry, which he served as a corporal during the World war. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Westcott and Mrs. Harold Sutherland, and a brother, Bernard, all of Edgerton. Funeral services will be held at the home at 1:30 p. m. Monday, and at 2 p. m. at St. John's Lutheran church, the Rev. J. A. Adkins officiating. Burial will be in Passett cemetery.

John LaBundy, Edgerton—John LaBundy, 6, died at 1 a. m. Saturday, at his home here, after a week's illness with stomach trouble. He was born at Allen's Grove, July 4, 1885, and came to Edgerton in 1888. He was married to Louise Lindeman at Delavan. He was a barber, a member of the Modern Woodmen and a Knight of Pythias.

Ganfield in Fine Address—Dr. W. J. Ganfield, gave the address of the evening, delivering an interesting talk, rich in historical import, in his usual free and eloquent manner. He had taken the occasion out with his many similes, comparisons of ancient and modern times, and insight into the future. Every graduate missed his and who asked, "Do you think there will be a United States of America 100 years from now?"

"Let's said Dr. Ganfield, 'When I was in Keosauqua, the great graduating class how many though there would be a United States of America 1,000 years from now; only six raised their hands. I believe there will be a United States of America 1,000 years from now if the high schools of the nation continue to turn out the same product as this sitting on the platform.'"

I believe there will be a United States of America 1,000 years from now if the high schools of the nation continue to turn out the same product as this sitting on the platform.'"

Other Numbers Given—Musical numbers were given by Girls' Glee club, led by Miss Mordis Hanson, singing "May Day Carol" and "The Benediction." The Rev. Henry Williams gave the invocation, and Prins W. W. Cullen, acting as chairman. Salutation by Miss Florence Smiley, and valedictory, by Lyle E. Seeman, were given splendidly. Both speakers gave preparation, a good thought, and were given with clearness and ease. They were the best salutation and valedictory given in years. Supt. F. O. Holt, city superintendent, gave the introductory address.

EDGERTON—The Edgerton public library will be closed mornings and evenings with the exception of Saturdays, beginning Monday, June 18. CHURCH, 68 YEARS OLD, BEING RAZED

North Jackson Street Building Used by Presbyterians Till 1892.

With the wrecking of the original Presbyterian church, building on North Jackson street, one of Janesville's oldest buildings, passes into history. Since the transferring of the church to its present location on North Jackson and Wall streets in 1892, the building has been used for various purposes. It has been city property for some years and was recently condemned as a fire hazard along with another frame structure nearby.

Organized in 1855, the First Presbyterian church, and society of Janesville held their initial services in what is now the Lincoln school. The building was rented every Sunday for one dollar a day and services were conducted by Rev. M. W. Staples. The organizers were: J. G. Raxford, Warren Norton, Mrs. Lydia Norton, Mrs. Cynthia Raxford, Mr. Lyman J. Barrows, Mrs. Caroline J. Barrows, Austin E. Burpee, Mrs. Eliza Burpee, J. A. Graham, Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, Samuel Lightbody and Mrs. Mary Miller.

In the spring of 1855 the members purchased from Francis Dane the North Jackson street property. Construction was started immediately and the building completed in the fall of the year at a total cost of $1,500. The seating capacity amounted to 100 persons. The building was an exceedingly plain structure without attempt at architectural ornamentation, sided with clapboards and painted white in the interior.

September 15, 1855 the building was dedicated by the Rev. Mr. Staples, assisted by Rev. Dr. Savage, Rev. O. Parks and Rev. Mr. Allen. At this date the church membership numbered 23.

In 1859 the building received some slight improvements. It was not until 1861 that any material changes were made. The interior was then made eight feet wider by dividing it lengthwise in the center and moving out the sides. A new organ was also given the building and the choir gallery in the rear constructed. The building was thus occupied until the completion of the new edifice at Jackson and Wall streets in 1892.

The original building was sold to Amos Crail, one of the old time residents of the city. Following the sale to Mr. Crail the building was used for various purposes including manufacturing and garage work. It was purchased by the city approximately 12 years ago and since then has been used for storage quarters.

already done. The resolution of the state highway commission adopted June 28, 1922, and certified to your county clerk July 8, 1922, changed the location of this state trunk highway, but the action by the state highway commission on a change more than five miles in length is effective until it has been approved by the county board. The only way which this can become effective is for the county board to pass a resolution approving the action of the state highway commission as certified to them.

"If the county board would pass a resolution to the effect it would be all that would be necessary."

Moore Can't Buy Materials—It had been expected that the Highway 20 matter would be cleared up at the special June meeting, but motion for adjournment was put through before a move for consideration was made. The board members were not able to take up the matter which next to the same problem has caused more controversy than any other subject before the board in recent years.

Mr. Moore was planning to ask for bids for the grading of the five miles as relocated out Pleasant street to the town line in Center and Thrush townships. The commissioner was planning to order cement and make other arrangements but he can't buy materials without money and he has no money available until the new route is relocated as part of the state highway system. Could it be assumed that the county board would settle the matter satisfactorily in the coming week, the relocation is held up and delay will be caused.

Must Be North of Tracks—Should the county board fail to certify to the relocation of the highway, the relocation of 20 from Janesville to the Green county line, the route laid out by the state highway commission which was refused by the board or by out another route through the Green county line, the county highway commission will face a leap at the conclusion of its present job on Highway 10, unless another road is ordered built this year.

After the refusal of the state highway commission, relocation which takes the highway through Portville to Orlinville and north of the tracks to the Green county line, the county highway commission will face a leap at the conclusion of its present job on Highway 10, unless another road is ordered built this year.

St. Paul's church school which always enjoys a large attendance, under the direction of Pastor G. J. Muller will also open Monday morning. The school runs to July 20.

MATURED U. S. BONDS AND STAMPS, NOT YET CASHED, 185 MILLION

Many Janesville people among those all over the United States, says Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, who have not yet cashed Victory bonds and 1918 War Savings stamps. The amount uncashed all over the United States is estimated at $150,000,000 in Victory notes and $35,000,000 in stamps. These securities have matured and no longer bear interest. Owners of government securities should look them over, taking out the Victory notes and War Savings stamps and cash them to present them for immediate exchange of a U. S. treasury savings certificate, he says.

LABOR LEADER DEAD.—Indianapolis.—John McFarland, 55, president of the International Typographical union and a well known labor leader, died here Saturday of heart trouble.

MUST ADJUST PRODUCTION—Washington.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace warned farmers that, if production is not adjusted to demand, prices will continue to be disappointing and that low prices are now due to a reduction in agricultural exports.

Petition for Probate—Petition for the probate of the will of Harriet "Curry" Field, who died June 4, has been made to the Rock county probate court by Omar P. Andrews, Durand, Ill. The estate is estimated at $4,400.

Moore Can't Buy Materials—It had been expected that the Highway 20 matter would be cleared up at the special June meeting, but motion for adjournment was put through before a move for consideration was made. The board members were not able to take up the matter which next to the same problem has caused more controversy than any other subject before the board in recent years.

Mr. Moore was planning to ask for bids for the grading of the five miles as relocated out Pleasant street to the town line in Center and Thrush townships. The commissioner was planning to order cement and make other arrangements but he can't buy materials without money and he has no money available until the new route is relocated as part of the state highway system. Could it be assumed that the county board would settle the matter satisfactorily in the coming week, the relocation is held up and delay will be caused.

Must Be North of Tracks—Should the county board fail to certify to the relocation of the highway, the relocation of 20 from Janesville to the Green county line, the route laid out by the state highway commission which was refused by the board or by out another route through the Green county line, the county highway commission will face a leap at the conclusion of its present job on Highway 10, unless another road is ordered built this year.

After the refusal of the state highway commission, relocation which takes the highway through Portville to Orlinville and north of the tracks to the Green county line, the county highway commission will face a leap at the conclusion of its present job on Highway 10, unless another road is ordered built this year.

St. Paul's church school which always enjoys a large attendance, under the direction of Pastor G. J. Muller will also open Monday morning. The school runs to July 20.

MATURED U. S. BONDS AND STAMPS, NOT YET CASHED, 185 MILLION

Many Janesville people among those all over the United States, says Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, who have not yet cashed Victory bonds and 1918 War Savings stamps. The amount uncashed all over the United States is estimated at $150,000,000 in Victory notes and $35,000,000 in stamps. These securities have matured and no longer bear interest. Owners of government securities should look them over, taking out the Victory notes and War Savings stamps and cash them to present them for immediate exchange of a U. S. treasury savings certificate, he says.

The Failure of a Republic.

The story of the release of the American and other prisoners of the Chinese bandits is the thrilling tale of a cash transaction, $87,000 in silver dollars being paid by the Chinese government and the agreement of the governor also to receive 2,500 of the bandits into the Chinese army to secure the freedom of the victims. Thus ended a captivity of nearly six weeks for the prisoners. It is a tribute to the inefficiency of the Chinese government and the deterioration of the Celestial empire as a national unit. Correspondent Powell, an American newspaper man, who performed the task of liaison officer between the bandits and the outside world took his own life in his hands constantly, but remained on duty to the last. To him the highest tribute is paid by the captives.

Following the story of the release of the prisoners comes news of additional troubles of the Chinese government at Peking and the hasty exit of Li Yuan Hung, president of the republic, from the ancient capital and his presence in Tien Tsin where he denies that he has resigned. But others are in charge of the government and there will be another revolution if Li wishes to return to the presidency.

It has been made quite plain in the past few years in experiments with republics that this form of government must be based, not only on a desire by the people to govern, but ability, as well. That also presupposes education on lines at least of correct information and a spirit of desiring more knowledge, which had been denied the Chinese, and for that matter the Russian and other Central European peasants. The Czech republic realizes this to the fullest extent and means have been secured and effort made to educate the people for the task of self government. There must be something more than a noisy demand for liberty which is confused with license. We have the same difficulty here in America with the uneducated and unthinking alien who is unable to grasp the unexpected simplicities of the American form of government. So when we see a hundred million or so Chinese steeped in ignorance and superstition attempting to establish a free government with only the slightest conception of what it all means, we cannot be disappointed seriously if a failure is chronicled. Add to that a selfish, greedy, and corrupt leadership and we register another reason for failure. The bandit episode is typical of China. The language understood best is produced by rubbing dollars together though China is not alone in this.

There must be something beside mere form and ceremony in a government of the citizens. It has to be based on the adaptation of people by education to such a self-government. The banditry in China is only one evidence of the inability of the Chinese to establish a republican government on a stable foundation at this time.

The Tucker bill repealing the state prohibition law is well named. Years ago there was a popular song beginning "Old Dan Tucker, he got drunk."

The Senate Refuses to Investigate.

Perhaps the senators, which includes our Mr. Garey, who voted against any investigation of the Moran episode in particular and the charges of malfeasance of officials in general, feel that everyone in that body knows all about what would be brought out in an examination and therefore any time spent would be superfluous. By a vote of 12 to 18 there will be no action. The chemical contents of the mysterious liquor which put Mr. Moran out for three days, will remain a mystery. Will the senate bring the assistant sergeant at arms, or policeman, Clark, to book for his part in the kidnapping or will his action be winked at, protected by the action of the governor's mouthpiece, Senator Garey? Senator Cashman said if the investigation should be started "there is no telling where it will end." That is probably true and a very good reason why some of the senators wanted it killed. Senator Severson said it was opposed by the same arguments that were used to forestall the Lorimer and Newberry investigations in the United States senate. Then he made the grave charge—a charge which should interest every citizen of the state whose servants these officials are—"When the head of a department is taken into custody and taken to the police station, would that not appear to give grounds for an investigation?"

We think the people of the state will agree that this fact and others circulated at the capitol and known under the term of "common knowledge" should be officially told to the men and women who are most vitally interested in Wisconsin in the affairs of their agents. Sir Galahad Garey at this juncture rode into the breach with his lance full tilt. He said he did not fear an investigation himself, but was opposed to one which was based on "barber shop gossip." If the statements and rumors are barber shop gossip one would arrive at a decision that the whole city of Madison and the state capitol had been turned into a universal barber shop.

To a citizen outside of Madison it looks as though the senate majority was attempting to protect some one whom they fear is sure to attract notoriety and perhaps even greater condemnation should there be an investigation. As it is

CAN'T FOOL UNCLE SAM

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—It is a strange fact that respectable citizens who would not dream of beating the grocery's bill or robbing a bank will try to cheat their way on to Uncle Sam's pay roll.

What may seem yet stranger to many people is that scarcely any of these too anxious candidates for jobs are able to fool astute old Uncle Sam. For a while a trick may appear to succeed. The applicant may be rated as qualified and duly installed at a government desk. But sooner or later the truth is out, and another individual is debarré from the service, perhaps with a fine or imprisonment.

This is clearly shown by the civil service records. The government has a careful system of checking up on the applicants for positions in its service, and on its employees as well. The records show repeatedly that the human memory is so unreliable in cases of deception that there is little chance of the author of misstatements remaining undetected. Questions as to age and experience are answered differently in different examination blanks. Even on the same application form discrepancies may occur.

During the year 456 persons were barred from examinations until further notice. Most of the debarments were on account of false statements made in applications filed. The untrue statements related to criminal record, age, height, weight or previous occupation. For collusion or use of help in examinations, 58 were barred. For the use of imbecile or incompetent persons or for breaking contract for personal services with the government, 42 were barred. Eleven were for attempts to impersonate others in examinations, 6 were for attempted bribery, and 17 for filing fraudulent vouchers or nodical certificates.

The largest number of cases comes under exaggeration of education, training, and experience and these amount to hundreds each year. The applicant is usually inspired by natural inclination to make the best showing possible, and in some cases being a victim of a superiority complex, really thinks he has greater ability than nature or education has given him. The fraud arises when the applicants make misstatements about their training or experience or other material fact; for instance, claiming supervision over assistants when they themselves were assistants.

The next in line is falsification as to age. If it is necessary that the applicant should be, for example, to be eligible in a particular examination, and he is only 19 or 20, he sometimes adds a year or two as the case may be. If he is along toward the maximum age limit or has reached it he may subtract a year or more and calmly attach his signature under oath to the statement. This is constantly recurring and is one of the most troublesome problems with which the commission has to deal.

One explanation not infrequently made, particularly in cases of girls, is that their mothers desired to appear younger than they are and consequently have taught their children to declare themselves younger than the facts warrant. These are cases in which false pride on the part of the parent becomes responsible for perjury on the part of the child.

There are instances where an applicant has given three conflicting dates as to his age in as many different applications.

Scarcely less often it occurs that an applicant who has been charged with a crime or indicted or convicted, will take oath that he has not been so charged or convicted. Almost invariably the falsehood is discovered and debarment ensues.

There has been a number of cases comparatively recently in which a felony was committed and the offender sent to jail. The most noticeable example of this was in the New York post office in which a number of crooks and criminals entered the examinations, were able to pass them, secured positions, and began a systematic robbery of the postoffice. They were suspected, arrested, identified by finger prints, and sent to the penitentiary.

It is necessary for the government to inflict punishment in most of such cases, otherwise the morale of the federal service would in time be seriously impaired.

Misrepresentations as to age, for instance, affect the retirement and because if the employee retires two years ahead of his actual age he has perpetrated a fraud upon the government. In addition to this, falseness as to age and experience affect the qualifications of the applicant or employee because the Government has found, after long experience, that certain ages are best adapted to particular classes of work. If the applicant circumvents this rule by misstatement he injures the service. Again, by securing a position through such methods, he is depriving a worthy competent person of the job because there are always more applicants than there are positions to be filled.

The penalties in these various named offenses run all the way from debarment for a period of one year to a fine or a denotation or removal or conviction and imprisonment in the penitentiary. From 1911 to 1923 there have been 5000 cases of debarment by the United States civil service commission, and the problem involved in perjury by applicants is one the commission has ever before it. In relation to the entire number who have taken examinations every year the number of those who falsified may seem insignificant. In proportion to the number of applicants who have been accepted as qualified it is serious.

Commissioners William C. Deming, George R. Wales, and Helen H. Gardner are anxious to see these cases of perjury diminished in number. They believe that only as the public is better informed regarding the civil service will tricking Uncle Sam be recognized as not merely dangerous, but futile.

Now the public will be certain that something is hidden and kept under cover and that whatever is hidden would not look well in print. That is the result of the blocking of the investigation, as will be discovered by them later. Let it be noted that progressive senators were voting for the investigation. Huber, Casperson, Schuman, Severson—leaders of the progressive party in the senate who gave it support while the friends of the governor, also progressives, and the socialists voted against the resolution. There were conservative senators on both sides of the roll call. So it cannot be charged that the action was taken by a group of conservative senators who had politics at stake. This should all be remembered later when the senators who were able to kill the resolution and protect officials, will be called upon to defend themselves before the people of Wisconsin.

We salute the past commander of the G. A. R. of Wisconsin, J. M. Carle, who, single handed, won the convention for Janesville.

Now is the time for the Janesville Indians to go on the warpath. The fight opens on the night of July 3.

Stambulsky cut off his whiskers and lost out. He perhaps never read about the man, Samson, who allowed Delilah to bob his hair with disastrous results.

Truman H. Newberry says the Ford boom is a joke. However, it must be admitted that a man with $200,000,000 might make more of an impression in a campaign than Newberry who had only $200,000 to spend on a senatorship.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A SUMMER DAY.
Oh, the blue sky above
And the singing birds I love,
And the breezes gently blowing
Over hills and valleys fair,
Picking up along the way
From the blossoms of the day
A perfume that is sweeter
Than the scent that women wear!

It is summer, and I stand
Hearing duty's stern command
And the city's heat and clamor
With the constant tramp of feet,
I turn to the shore and say:
"Turn me loose and let me play,
Let me linger in the sunshine
Where the shore and river meet."

"Let me stay and dream a while
Where the water lilies smile,
Let me hear the big trees whisper
Kindlier words than humans know:
Banks of steel and stone are cold,
Stored with silver and with gold—
It's a river bank I want to be
Where the friendly willows grow."

"There's no money in the grass,
Or the white clouds as they pass
Like little ships, full of bliss,
On a perfect sea of blue:
There is neither fame nor glory
In a summer day's glad story,
But the soil will rest the better
For the sunshine and the dew."

"Let me turn my weary eyes
To the beauty of the skies,
Let me try to catch the meaning
Of the chatter of the birds;
Let me dream and let me play,
Let me fling this day away
Where there is no strife for glory
And there are no bitter words."

Who's Who Today

DR. GUSTAV KRUPP VON BOHLEN
With the sentencing of Dr. Gustav Krupp von Bohlen and Halbach to 15 years' imprisonment by a French court-martial, German writers point out that there was American blood in Dr. Krupp's veins and retell the story of his great-grandfather's death in the Civil war.

New details of the life of his great-grandfather, Brigadier General Henry Bohlen, are being brought out in the German press. General Bohlen was born in Bremen in 1810, took part in the siege of Antwerp, and then came to the United States.

He settled in Philadelphia and made a comfortable fortune in the liquor business. When the Civil war started he helped recruit a regiment largely composed of Germans, the Seventy-fifth Pennsylvania Infantry.

On Aug. 22, 1862, he met death near Kelly's Ford on the Rappahannock. He had married Caroline Oswald, daughter of Philip Oswald, a member of a well-known German-American family in New York.

General Bohlen's daughter grew up in Philadelphia and married Arnold Halbach, who became the diplomatic representative of the United States in Baden. Their children were educated in Baden and the eldest son, Gustav, eventually became the representative of the Baden government at the Hague.

While at the Hague Halbach was ennobled and he added his mother's family name to that of his father, forming the present combination. The eldest of von Bohlen and Halbach's 10 children, Gustav, entered the diplomatic service. He was secretary of the German embassy at Peking during the Boxer rebellion and served some years as embassy secretary in Washington.

When serving as secretary to the Prussian embassy to the Vatican, Dr. von Bohlen and Halbach met Bertha Krupp and married her in 1906.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BOTHER THE BUTCHER

It is wasteful for working people to eat meat for fish or eggs or fowl more than once a day in cool weather, and injurious for them to eat it more than three times a week in hot weather.

The abuse of meat-eating is not only harmful to the health but un-patriotic. A fat, overworked, overworked person who has the temerity to sit down to eat meat twice a day, or meat and fish at the same meal, ought to be fined heavily for each offense.

A little meat in the diet is advisable in most people engaged in active work, though not necessary and often not advisable for a great many who do their work sitting at a desk. For growing children meat three times a week, or for young babies meat broths three times a week cannot be dispensed with.

Let a little meat go a great way. The flavor of meat and the stimulating effect of the extractives of fresh meats are what the appetite craves. Get it economically by preparing various dishes containing enough meat to give zest to the meal. Meat, fish, or other farinaceous material, or vegetables, which should constitute the important nourishing part of the recipe. Meat is pretty poor nourishment as compared with bread or potatoes or beans or macaroni and cheese, and a whole lot more expensive.

A worker can endure longer without meat in his diet than with it. He can withstand high temperatures much more easily without meat than with it.

The evening meal should be the substantial meal of the day for all who work in daytime and rest at night. Midday dinner is wrong for busy people. In fact, people who take a light lunch at noon, and a heavy meal at 6 p. m. dinner, then a light lunch at bedtime if desired.

Macaroni, spaghetti, of noodles cooked in broth and served with generous dabs of gravy or meat; stew of a hodgepodge of vegetables just flavored with a chunk of the cheapest cut of meat, are worth while.

Q. Can an airplane fly upside down for a distance of five miles? E. M.

A. The air service of the army says that no plane has ever been known to fly upside down for a distance of five miles, or even for one mile. A plane can fly in that position for a short distance only.

Q. What metal will burn when it touches water? D. L.

A. When potassium is placed on water it displaces hydrogen at so high a temperature that the gas catches fire, burning with a lilac color.

Q. What is the highest official position ever held by a negro in the United States? L. J. W.

A. Probably that of United States senator. A negro, Hiram R. Revels, was senator from Mississippi shortly after the end of the civil war.

Q. Are our five cent pieces made of pure nickel? F. C. K.

A. Nickel is 55 per cent copper and 45 per cent nickel. The nickel gives them their hardness and durability, the other metal as to outward appearance is much cheaper than nickel and its use saves money in the manufacture of this coin.

Q. How many families are there in the United States? M. O. G.

A. It is estimated that there are about 27,000,000 families in this country, with an average of four from four to five persons in each family.

Q. What percent of the Indians are American citizens? G. H.

A. The Indian bureau says that about two-thirds of the Indians of all ages are citizens.

Q. Where is the salt range? A. G. E.

A. This mountain range is in Punjab, India, and is a rugged chain of barren peaks from 2,000 to 5,000 feet high, noted for immense deposits of pure rock salt.

Q. How did the habit vice of lifting the hat in salutation, H. L.

A. Doubtless it is a movement symbol of resignation of one's goods to the king, and this is probably the origin of the custom of lifting the hat or removing a glove.

Q. What was the first baptism used as a symbol of baptism? M. H. C.

A. The records of the earliest Christian writers seem to agree that immersion was the mode of baptism practiced not only by the entire body of Christians, but was used previous to that time by the Jews who immersed proselytes to their religious faith.

Q. How far does the man fly in writing a sign on the sky? G. M.

A. The aviator who has recently written a two word name on the sky has traveled from 10 to 15 miles while writing it.

Girl of Ghost Mountain

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Mary Burrows, with a giant Swedish girl, Thora, lives on the plateau on top of Ghost Mountain in Arizona. Peter Sheridan, New York lawyer, with tuberculosis, has bought a ranch at Chico Mesa and is recovering his health. His inseparable companion is Red Jackson, foreman of the ranch. They rescue a Chinaman, Quong, from the clutches of Hollister, a rustler. Peter finds a way to the ranch on top of the mountain and tells an ancient tale of the ghost of Hollister to annoy the women. Red falls in love with Thora. Hollister, swearing revenge, kidnaps Mary and Thora. He drunks poison mesquite and goes blind, staggers off and is found by Mary alone, a week later by Peter. He is rescued after her. Tales of marvelous ghost in the canyon are told. Quong, who was once the keeper of a silver mine, tells the location of the mines and the gold there ready to be taken over. Sheridan and others form an expedition to go in search of the treasure.

"We are after a cache of gold," says Peter. "The secret of it is Quong's. I am his partner in the deal. It is going to be a hard job to tackle. Very likely pick and shovel work. But each of us has got a share in it. So has every one on the ranch. I am going to use mine, if we get what we are after, to start the irrigation for Chico Mesa that you all know has been in plan for a long time. Now, I don't expect any interruption, but it may come. This cache does not now belong to any one, but Quong's possession of its secret, which he shares with me as a partner with him, gives us first right of discovery. However, others who might happen to be on the ground might find it in time, whether they be held legitimate or not, which might be a matter."

"Quong is the only man who knows how to find it. He gives me a half interest, mainly because I aided him against Hollister at Motoz. But that you all know he has done. And also because he is interested in the plan to make Chico Mesa a top-notch cow country, from feed to beef. All of my share in the project, except what you boys are to get out of it. You can do as you like with that. But, back in the main canyon, under a pile of dirt, there is water for Chico Mesa, electricity, thorough-bred cattle, alfalfa, improvements of all kinds. I want you to help me dig it out. It's going to be a hard job, but the pay is special and the object is worthwhile. What do you say?"

Sheridan knew that in talking to the three riders he had brought with him he was ultimately addressing all the outfit at Chico Mesa. He knew that his project had been one of the chief topics of conversation at the ranch and he fancied that it was generally approved of. Now he could see that he had quickened the imagination of the men, made them see something beyond the mere uncovering of gold, promised them an actual share in the development of the mesa that meant to them, demoralized the idea that they were only laborers and that the bulk of the treasure was not to pass through their hands. It was a way, an acid test of his men's loyalty, friendship in him, and they responded, after their own fashion.

"It goes," said one of the cowboys for the first time, "to stand in. You three will take it in turns to stay here and let us know if any one happens along. All right, let's make a start."

Household Hints

MENU HINT
Breakfast: Sliced Oranges, Milk, Soft Cooked Eggs, Butter, Toast, Coffee.
Luncheon: Dried Lima Beans, Cabbage Salad, Bread and Butter, Cream Pie, Milk.
Dinner: Cheese Souffle, Mashed Potatoes, Roast Beef, Bread and Butter, Fresh Pineapple, Coffee or Tea.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Green Coconut Pie—Three eggs, one cup sugar, one and one-half cups milk, one cup grated coconut, two tablespoons confectioners' sugar, pinch of salt. Line pie tin with crust; beat yolks of eggs and milk, the half cup sugar, and coconut, and mix with pie and bake. Beat whites of eggs stiff, add two tablespoons of confectioners' sugar, cover pie and brown in oven.

SOME HOT WEATHER DESSERTS

Coffee Ice Cream—Two cans condensed milk, one can cream, one pint strong cold coffee, two quarts milk. Very little if any sugar is required. Smooth and fine. Leave out coffee if desired, add another pint of milk and vanilla. This dessert should be chopped very fine for freezing cream.

Ice Cream Surprise—Soft one cup water and sugar (three tablespoons), one cup milk, two tablespoons grated chocolate and one teaspoon arrowroot, with two-thirds cup of milk; add this to the first mixture and cook until thick. Take from fire and add one teaspoon vanilla. Serve hot on slices of ice cream.

SUGGESTIONS

To Clean a Diamond Ring—To clean a diamond ring satisfactorily, take a tiny soft feather and pull it back and forth between the facets of the ring and under the diamond.

For Cleaning Lace—Commence with clean lace that is much soiled. Rub between the hands, the inside out, using white meal for white lace and yellow meal for ecru lace.

What to Do With Leftovers—Keep some of the jars handy for vegetables and fruit, or left over salmon and other fish, which can be sealed tight and put in the refrigerator. By doing this you may never have any odor or spoil your milk and butter.

Fasten the snaps of a garment together before putting the article through the wringer. This will protect the little knobs from being crushed and broken.

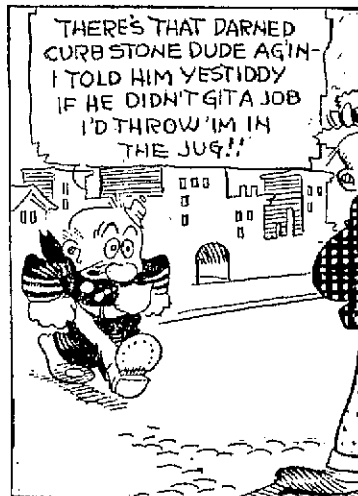

Peanut Brittle—Two cups peanuts, two cups cooking syrup, one cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, one eighth teaspoon salt. Boil sugar and syrup together until it threads. Add soda and butter and pour over peanuts which have been spread on a buttered pan. Break in pieces with a knife.

Convenient Comb Case—Take a wash cloth and fold it up and about three inches. Then take a very thick hoop and slip stitch on each end and across the top. A narrow edge crocheted on it would also be pretty. Put a rubber band in the top and fasten a ribbon across the top and hang it up. This makes a very convenient comb case to hang in your bedroom.

Remove Stains—Bod linen will often become stained with medicine during illness. These marks will frequently not yield to ordinary washing and should always receive special treatment. It is a good plan before the linen is washed to put a paste formed of fuller's earth and household ammonia onto the stains. The paste should be left on until the preparation has dried and can then be rinsed off in cold water.

Public Interest Scant; Trading in Stocks Desultory

New York—Stock and bond prices displayed a desultory, trend during the week, with the trading of a desultory nature. The marked absence of public interest in the stock market and the lessened activity of operators on the long side induced liquidation by the holders of long stocks.

Resumption of dividends by the American Smelting and refining company testified to the improvement in the copper industry.

Railroad shares offered good resistance to selling pressure, some of the low priced carriers being in good demand because of high current earnings. The latest weekly carloading statement showed a slight decrease but this was explained by the memorial day holiday.

Over-production of California crude oil continues to have a depressing effect on the oil share, most of which established new low records for the year. Reports that this production had almost reached its peak failed to stem the tide of liquidation which has been in progress for several weeks.

Announcements of lower tire prices with indications of a brought about heavy offerings of the tire and rubber stocks all of which touched new minimum prices during the week. Steel and equipment also lost ground, the former in further reports of a curtailment of forward buying.

Latest developments in the German reparations situation, an early settlement being reached by the allied powers.

American Bankers are known to be taking an active interest in the situation. The splendid success achieved in the flotation of international loan has had a cheerful effect on sentiment.

FINANCIAL NOTES

26,000,000 gold marks to the International Acceptance corporation of New York came from Germany Tuesday.

Consolidated Power & Light 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock to the amount of $1,500,000 is being offered by brokerage houses. It is being sold at 95 1/2 and will yield about 7.50.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on its stock, payable July 15 to stockholders of record June 25.

Softness in the oil shares is a reflection of the rumors that there would be another reduction in the price of crude oil before long. The statistical position of the industry is still quite unsatisfactory. It is declared that the pipe-line companies will take steps to restrict the amount of crude which they will accept from the producers.

The lumber trade is "apathetic." Dealers are inclined to hold off on large orders.

Norfolk & Western Railroad stock is said to be in line for another extra dividend. An extra of 1 per cent was paid last December, making 8 per cent for the year 1922.

Directors of the Crucible Steel Company will hold a meeting on Saturday. A dividend may be forthcoming at that time, but some indication of the belief that they will for another month before taking action.

Estimates of the earnings of the Republic Iron & Steel Company for the June quarter have been revised upward, it now being figured that the profits on the junior stock will be better than $5 rather than $4 a share. In the March quarter the company returned $3.65 a share.

Directors of the Rickenbacker Motor Company have declared a dividend of 2 per cent, payable July 15 to stockholders of record June 30. This is the third cash dividend that the company has declared this year.

Bank debts for the week ending June 8, as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank, totaled $10,187,365,000, marking an increase of $2,330,000,000, or 23.7 per cent over the total of $7,857,365,000 reported for the previous week. This considerable increase reflects in part the customary end-of-month swell in the volume of debits to depositors' accounts, partly also the larger number of business days (six instead of five in the preceding week). For New York city the increase for the week was $1,143,000,000, or over 30 per cent.

Sixteen foreign countries asked for information of the department of commerce regarding American goods in the first week of June.

One hundred different countries use American automobiles. 562,000 passenger cars and 135,000 commercial vehicles have been sold abroad in the last decade.

A loan of $150,000,000 is sought by the government to "round out its fiscal year" ending June 30.

Cotton has been soaring on reports of rains in the southwest.

The first foreign loan, that of Austria, of $25,000,000, was over-subscribed the first day in New York and branch brokerage houses handling it for J. P. Morgan & Co.

Bond trading in May was larger than in April and 70 million dollars below May, 1922.

Minneapolis & St. Louis show deficit of $1,157,923 for 1922.

Taking 1914 as a 100 basis the cost of building now is indexed at 297. But this is 20 per cent below the cost of 1920. The Abernethy index says that building costs will be stable or slightly lower for the next three months.

The American Smelting and refining company has authorized a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share payable on August 1st.

Articles of incorporation have been granted to Ashburn, Grain and Feed company of Janesville.

Electric Auto-Lite shows net earnings of $2,617,046, equivalent to $10.46 a share, for the year 1922.

Came to Janesville July 4.

LATEST MARKET REPORT

GRAIN

Chicago Review. Chicago.—Although wheat underwent a moderate downturn in price Saturday at the outset, a rally soon took place. The initial weakness was ascribed largely to selling on account of views expressed by Secretary Wallace that low prices were due to over-production. However, crop damage reports from Missouri and other places that have heretofore been sending good reports led quickly to an upturn in values. The opening which came from unchanged figures to 5c lower, with July $1.11 1/2, and Sept. $1.00 1/2, was followed by a rally to $1.12 1/2, and then by an advance to above Friday's finish. Subsequently, there was considerable selling of July against spreads with September, but general demand was small, and the market went down again.

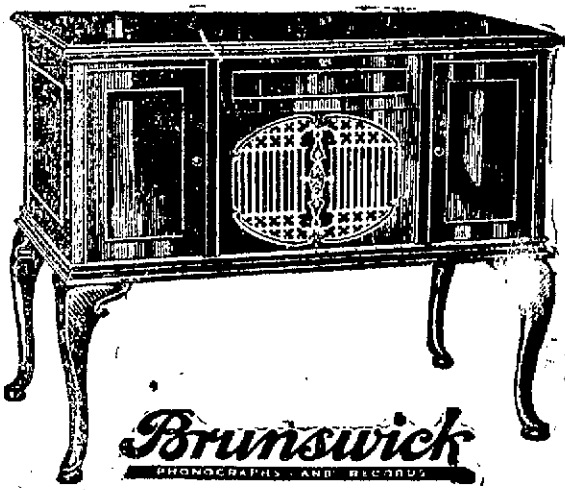

Active buying on the part of commission houses gave strength to corn. After opening at 5c decline to 3c advance, July 82 1/2, the corn market scored a substantial general advance. Buying ceased when wheat turned weak. Corn prices then receded, and the close was weak at a shade to 1/4 net decline. July $1.12 1/2, and Sept. $1.00 1/2. Oats were firmer with corn, opening at about 1c gain, July 41 1/2, the market underwent a slight sag, but then all deliveries showed gains. Higher quotations on loans steadied the provision market.

SOME OF THE RECENT IMPORTANT EVENTS OF THE WORLD TOLD IN PICTURES ON THIS PAGE

The Earl and Countess of Lanesborough, snapped on arrival in Frisco from Hawaii.

For the greater part of their round the world honeymoon the camera shy Earl and Countess of Lanesborough managed to elude photographers. But not so in Frisco. There camera men caught them and the Countess with the evidence of her recent Hawaii visit.

Asa Candler, Sr., millionaire coca-cola magnate, is out with a challenge to run John D. Rockefeller a foot race. Candler is a track enthusiast and thinks a couple of "shots of coke" would enable him to outdistance John even though he did burn up the track with his oil.

Mrs. Katherine Martin Brennan.

"Time Flies" says the proverb. Time flew in more ways than one in the household of Martin Brennan, South Boston. Brennan says his wife tossed the timepieces at his head. And her aim was good. He declares, in his divorce action, she did it so he couldn't tell what time she came in nights. She admits she threw one clock at him but doesn't know whether it hit him. He settles that by saying, "Yes!"

Aaron Sapiro.

That five men in Chicago control the egg market of the entire United States is the charge made by Aaron Sapiro, San Francisco attorney and market expert. Sapiro made the accusation at the National egg marketing conference held in Chicago recently under the auspices of the American farm bureau.

Miss Marie Esch.

Miss Marie Esch, daughter of congressman John J. Esch, of Wisconsin, has been appointed to teach in the academic and constructive vocational school soon to be opened in the house of detention at Washington, D. C. Miss Esch is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and is also a normal school graduate.

Robert A. Loeb.

Robert A. Loeb probably will have the distinction of being the youngest collegiate graduate this year. He finishes at Michigan, "U" this term at the age of 18. He expects to study law next.

Otto Vogel.

Otto Vogel, clean-up hitter of the University of Illinois baseball team, is now showing great promise with the Chicago Cubs. He seems to have all-around ability.

Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field.

What is believed to be the largest insurance policy ever taken out by a woman has been issued to Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field, wife of Marshall Field III, of Chicago. It is for $2,000,000. The policy is divided among twenty or more companies because of the law which prohibits one company granting a policy of over $200,000 on the life of one person.

Another geyser has been added to the attractions at Yellowstone National park, but so far only the guards have seen it in action. Evidences of its "playfulness," scalded trees and washed-out roads, are plain, but it has not yet joined the circle of "respectable" geysers which erupt according to schedule for the benefit of tourists. It still "plays" to suit itself.

The Riddle of the Spinning Wheel

By M. E. and T. W. HANSHEW

Being an exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective.

Copyright 1922 by Doubleday, Page & Co. and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate of New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

In deadly fear of the lives of her father and others, Miss Duggan seeks help from Scotland Yard. Hamilton Cleek, under the name of Deland, takes up the attempt to solve the mystery of the Spinning Wheel, which has been a short spectator of this family scene. For she had kept, as usual, as quiet as a mouse, only Cleek observed as he looked at her, her eyes had blazed with that one light which no fire can quench, and she had shut them for a moment, as though to hide the secret they revealed from Ross Duggan's troubled face.

"Sorry, old chap! I forgot for a moment. But it shan't occur again. I'll be off, Maud, and get along to Cynthia's. She'll have something to say about this, I dare say, and her Guv'nor will probably give me a leg-up in finding a job. I'm better off of this. Mr. Deland you've been the unwilling victim of an unpleasant scene—and a family scene, which is most unpleasant of all. I must apologize to you. Had I foreseen anything of the sort, we would have postponed your luncheon until a later date. It might have been more agreeable for you. Good-bye, and I'm sorry I shan't see more of you. I'm clearing off now, Maud—you can send along my things later."

Maud Duggan's eyes searched his face, a look in his eyes of agonizing question, as if she was unable to believe the evidence of her own ears. Then she ran to him and caught him suddenly by the arm.

"Ross, dear, you mustn't be so hasty! You mustn't! she entreated, squeezing his arm in her two hands as he looked down at her with his set, angry face. "You know Father, dear, he'll wish in half an hour, he'd bitten his tongue out sooner than spoken to you like that. You know he will. You're his wife, and his favourite—as you have always been. Try and see this thing clearly. Don't act in a hurry, dear. Just wait—wait until this evening, for my sake if not for your own. Don't leave me here to stick the thing out by myself. It isn't fair to me."

That last plea seemed to shake her better than all the others had done, for the anger faded suddenly from his countenance, and he laid a hand against her cheek before swinging upon his heel.

"Well, I'll think about it, and see what Cynthia says, anyhow," he replied, after a pause. "Only, I've reached the end of my tether, and human nature won't stand too much. Sorry, Miss McCall. Did I tread upon your foot? I'm so blithering angry I don't really know what I'm doing, so you must forgive me."

And for the first time the company seemed aware that Johanna McCall had been a short spectator of this family scene. For she had kept, as usual, as quiet as a mouse, only Cleek observed as he looked at her, her eyes had blazed with that one light which no fire can quench, and she had shut them for a moment, as though to hide the secret they revealed from Ross Duggan's troubled face.

"It's all right, really. And I'm so awfully sorry, Mr. Duggan," she said in her soft, monotonous voice. It is so unfair, so unjust and please don't go without saying good-bye to me."

Then she, too, turned upon her heel and fled out of the room. And suddenly Cleek saw one thing startlingly clear. Miss Duggan had mentioned "an attraction" in Johanna McCall's eyes. That was why she stayed on here at the castle and endured so much. But she had given him to understand that it was Tavish.

But it was not Tavish who had inspired that unquenching fire in those pale eyes; it was not Tavish who had set that here-worshipping expression upon the plain, unattractive face.

It was the disinherited heir to the estates himself!

That afternoon, after he had left the castle, the disinherited heir, he went to Mr. Narkom, as he had said he would. The enigmatical words which flew across the wire to Scotland Yard, in their own particular mode, and made Mr. Narkom fairly jump with excitement, were these: "Full up right to the bum. Come along, Cleek."

CHAPTER VII

The Summons

Cleek left that house of anger in a strange frame of mind, rather glad to be back again in his own sunny room at the Three Fishers, and away from an influence which seemed somehow horribly malign. The pitched battle that had taken place between father and son, engaged on by a designing woman who did not mind to what depths she stooped so that her ends were eventually reached, gave him an odd feeling. There was something venomous about the whole affair, something that reminded him of an asp about to strike. He could not shake the feeling from him. The premonition held firm hold of his faculties. Delays over the moors certainly acted as a refresher for the lad's ready humour had the true Cockney bite in it and he had seen, with his keen eyes, how the master he loved and revered was brooding under the shadow of something he sensed although he could not see. And so his comical faculties were put to good work. Until—ten time at least—Cleek returned to the Inn of the Three Fishers, a little less clouded in heart and brain, and with some of the moody depression shed from him.

He spent the rest of the afternoon and early evening reading and thinking by the open window of his room, looking out now and then at the whole massive structure of Ayton Castle, with its great gateway, above which Rhea du Macduff stood everlastingly guard. Gaily anything might happen there—and the world be no wiser! It was an appalling thought at best. What secrets had that place held in the past and never revealed to the light of day? What secrets might it not hold in the future?

And those dungeons. The thing he had seen there—no obviously belonging to Ross Duggan, and which now lay in his inner pocket. He fumbled for it and brought it out to the light, examining it minutely. Fine linen, finely monogrammed. Very obviously the handkerchief of an extravagant gentleman. But what on earth he would be doing down there, amidst that was something which sent the grim lines fleeing about Cleek's mouth and eyes. It couldn't be he—the son of a proud old house like this one! The thing seemed impossible, and yet—there was the handkerchief to prove that fact; and then this electricity business, which obviously ate up a good many private funds. Him? It would be a close looking into, if nothing further proceeded with Miss Duggan's part of the affair.

For an hour or two he sat pondering in a daze, the book he had caught up absent-mindedly from the billiard-room book-case lying open in his lap.

That quiet dinner-sounding through to his feet, a sense of sharpened appetite leading pleasing colour to the thought of what the dining-hall would be, and the hostess, in setting a good table, and his hospitality was by no means frugal.

Williams Plays Here on Sunday With Edgerton

"Rollie" Williams, all star, nine-letter athlete of the University of Wisconsin, will be in Janesville Saturday afternoon in the uniform of the Tobacco City American Legion. He will play the field in a southern Wisconsin league contest against the Janesville Boosters.

The "Edgerton flash" in his two previous appearances in league games, presented the crowds with thrills. In one game, he stole home from second base, and in the other, he pitched a perfect game. In both games in which he has played, he has been walked purposely.

Janesville, idle last Sunday, will get a chance this week to put "Reddy" Lanphere, the right-handed million dollar star, in the box. With a wonderful hurling record this season, Lanphere will probably pitch to Williams and show why he can outpitch any other "Reddy" always was a favorite with Janesville baseball fans and with his form of this season, he is apt to present a stellar exhibition of control of the apple.

Sunday's game will be halted for one minute at 3 p. m. out of respect for Frank Duman, a member of the executive committee of the Edgerton legion, whose death occurred this week. Plans will remain uncovered during the intermission and fans will be requested to do likewise. A firing squad from the Janesville police will stand at attention in front of the Duman family home.

The Duman funeral will be held Sunday's affair promises to be one of the classics of the year. With all teams in the circuit lightening up and getting down to business, it will be the aim of the Janesville boosters to get the Duman family out of their losing streak and put one over on the visitors. When last Janesville met Edgerton at the Janesville city, the final score was 2 to 0 for Edgerton, a first class show.

Amundsen, Edgerton Pitcher Earl Whitford, the no-hit, no-run twirler for the Tobacco City, will not be with organization Sunday, being forced to make a trip out of town. Amundsen, a chap with world's of speed and control, will be in the box and the Boosters have as much, if not more, respect for him as they have for Whitford. A pitcher's duel is in the making.

Edgerton last Sunday beat Port Atkinson and went into a tie with the Robins for first place. On Sunday, Janesville will put all the team has in its league leading hitting ability to put a banana peel under the feet of the Robins. Edgerton is one of those teams that is fearful Janesville is due to get started on the upward grade.

Several hundred fans are expected to come here from Edgerton. They remember the last clash of the teams and also are yearning to get in following their first place team with an encouragement. A crowd better than a thousand is expected to flock to the Pines pasture. Janesville fans are hungry after being without a home game for two weeks.

Port in for Fight Following last Sunday's sudden reversal to the tune of 1 to 0 by Edgerton, Port Atkinson is ready to show Stoughton the caliber of ball the Robins are playing. Fighting as a unit, the Port legion outfit is a fierce enemy for any club. Stoughton was forced to 10 innings a week ago to grab the game out of the fire from Deerfield, 2 to 0. That was a great affair and gives promise of a bang-up battle for the 11th city fans. Stoughton has an opportunity of going into a tie for second place by winning Sunday's meeting.

The race certainly has become a hot one. Every team has a chance and is fighting to tack that possibility onto their trophy belts.

Cambridge Meets Deerfield The Cambridge team has been taken over by the American legion of that town, making four out of the six organizations in the loop now playing under former service men's colors.

Sunday, Cambridge will play host to Deerfield. Here's where rivalry enters into the proposition with all of its thrill making characteristics. Deerfield is a nose ahead of Cambridge and while Perry's boys cannot make the Deers to this game, they have an opportunity to put a thorn in the running of their neighbors.

Deerfield likewise will be fighting because of the loss of a 10 inning contest to Stoughton a week ago.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

MUCH has been written during the past week about the wonders of Edgerton, Wisconsin's sack defender of the Chicago White Sox, but he must come in again for additional prizes when reviewing the batting of the legions for the week. Edgerton, according to Associated Press figures up to last Wednesday is in the go for the top north batting honors of the American league. In addition to his swiping enough bases to put him in Port Leavenworth for life, he has an average of .388 as compared with .370 last week.

This is the best of Edgerton's batting record, which is a mark of .328 made of Holman, Detroit, leader. In fact, it gives him second rank and has 21 steals to his credit.

AFTER AN ABSENCE of three weeks with an injured knee, Hornsby of St. Louis is back in the game. He showed his recovery by knocking out three hits in his first game of the week, giving him .381 average in 23 games. Zach Wheat, of Brooklyn is leading the National circuit with a mark of .403. These figures are based on players who have played in 25 or more contests. Turning for a moment to the American association, Bumpy Thier suffered a bit of a slump in the week but continues to lead the willow wielders with .381.

WHEN IT COMES to features, Ruth is slowly overtaking "Cy" Williams in home run hitting. The Bambino now has 13 and Williams of the National league possesses 20. Brief of Kansas City has 13 in the association. Williams was out a bit with a lame back. Ruth leads in runs scored with 47 and in total bases with 121. Hornsby has 48 runs in the Nationals. Brief's record shows 52 runs and 121 bases. Rohms of Cincinnati is leading the National league batters, swinging the same as Murphy of Columbus in the association.

Protest of Deerfield club in southern Wisconsin league of game with Stoughton not allowed.

National athletic stars meet at Chicago Saturday for national athletic games.

Diamond Sparkies (By A. P.)—Yankees checked losing streak, defeating St. Louis, 10-0. Giants went down before Cincinnati, 9-0. Yankees keep three games in lead. Giants are only four, as Philadelphia Athletics lost and vain prevented Phillies-Pittsburgh series from continuing. One game advance for Yankees; last game loss for Giants. Sherrard Smith, former star national leaguer, stood Athletics on heads and Indians won, 4-1. Cincinnati three straight victories over Giants, running team's consecutive string to eight and within half game of second place. Attention focused on Chicago-Brooklyn series as crucial in National as Philadelphia-Cleveland in American. With Friday's 5-7 victory Brooklyn has edge of series, two games to one and Cubs, twice within one game of first division have gone into sixth place. Hornsby called to Texas by serious illness of mother, and St. Louis, despite his absence, won over Boston, 5-3. Detroit made it two straight wins over Boston, 2-0, and Washington beat Chicago, 5-6, splitting series. Wheat leading batter of Nationals, kept Dodgers from dropping, getting three hits off Alexander, driving in three runs including winning marker in 11th. Harnett, of Cubs, batting pinch in 11th with man on base and two out, came within few inches of tying Dodgers, when his drive almost cleared screen in left field for homer; Wheat backed against fence and made great catch. Pat Collins of Browns accidentally spiked over right eye by Ward of Yankees, and rendered unconscious.

Absence of Valley, Wisconsin, from half mile run, robbed event of keen competitor for Holbrook, eastern star runner, at University of Chicago relay.

Badger Crew Due to Lose But Will Fight for Trip

Madison—The first sectional crew race of the year will be rowed over Lake Mendota here Saturday afternoon with the University of Washington and the University of Wisconsin pulling for a victory but is to determine their strength in the national regatta at Longbeach.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed. The test is the first for the western rowing teams on their trip to the Hudson. While Washington is to make a display of strength that will show its position against the other crews of the country, the Wisconsin eight will attempt to make a showing that will justify the university faculty in sending it east next season.

There was a general belief that the westerners would win by a good margin over the less experienced Badger crew. Both eightes were evenly matched physically, but most of the Wisconsin men were rowing their first season on the varsity.

Both crews are in their best form after days of practice over the two and one-half mile course on Lake Mendota. Washington has pulled the course twice daily during its week's stay here, while the Badgers have contented themselves with one run over the course.

Before the varsity race, the Washington freshmen will race the Wisconsin junior crew. The western youngsters are giants in stature, averaging 6 feet 3 1/2 inches in height and weighing 175 pounds. They expect an easy win.

Thousands of spectators will line the lake shore for the rowing event of the season here, which features the alumni day activities. Governor

J. J. Blaine and Walter J. Kohler, president of the university regatta are to judge the event.

WOLVES TROOP OVER TO DARIEN SUNDAY

The Janesville Wolves will take a trip over to Darien Sunday, where they take on the fast Darien boys. Both teams are putting up some good ball this year and a large crowd is expected. The bus will leave the Y. M. C. A. at 12:15 and Fitch's store at 12 o'clock. Schiefelbusch and Mueller will do the twirling, while Mayble and Zahn will receive.

Dancing, trapshooting, picnics, everything at Charley Bluff tomorrow.

Michigan baseball team wins over Washington university, 8-7.

Rudolph ("Rudy") Huklans, St. Paul, basketball, track and football star, awarded all conference medal.

Deers' Protest Is Turned Down by League Board

Deerfield's protest of the game played on their home grounds with Stoughton last Sunday, won by the Hub, 2 to 0 in 10 innings, was not allowed when the board of directors of the southern Wisconsin league met in the conference room of the Gazette Friday night. The game was awarded to Stoughton.

The Deers objected to what they declared was a reversal of decision by the umpire-chief. The play occurred in the sixth inning with three men on the sacks. While coming home, the player failed to touch the sack and the umpire was so notified by Captain Stoughton of Stoughton, who in turn ran after the player and touched him out near the bench. The board ruled there was no reversal of decision in that under the rules the umpire must be informed by the captain of the opposing team of the failure to touch the bag and if the man be tagged out before the ball is returned, the pitcher, and umpire then must call him out. The secret vote was 6 to 1 to uphold the umpire.

The meeting lasted two hours with 15 in attendance, including witnesses from both Deerfield and Stoughton. There was a fine spirit of cooperation shown, with all managers enthusiastic over the prospects for the balance of the season. Report, were made of the greater satisfaction being displayed in all towns over home talent baseball than for any other variety.

Miss Anne Townsend and Miss Phyllis Walsh won Marylans, a double champion for women, defeating Miss Mildred Willard and Mrs. C. C. Naderla.

Let Us Not Neglect the Little Things of Life—or Business

THE fields of human endeavor are as fertile as the valleys of the Nile. Intensive cultivation, however, assures a more bountiful yield. Success is an elimination contest in which the fittest survive. Every mother's son of us is measured by the yardstick of ability.

The vision of Henry Ford made riders of millions of walkers, yet the demand for shoe leather today is greater than ever.

And so, the hand of Progress is not that of a destroyer, but of a builder. The creation of new ideas—or the development of old ones—is a source of inspiration to all.

This store is in the service of the people. It is our desire to serve you—the customer—before serving ourselves. We want you to profit by our better merchandising, before we take our profits in dollars and cents. Not the creation of a new idea, but the development of a very old one.

Neglect of the little things oftentimes defeats one's purposes. We feature Stratford Clothes and Quality Shoes because, in their production, not one of the little details so essential to good clothes-making and better shoe construction has been neglected. There's a heart and soul touch here, and a conscience stitch there—quite out of the ordinary.

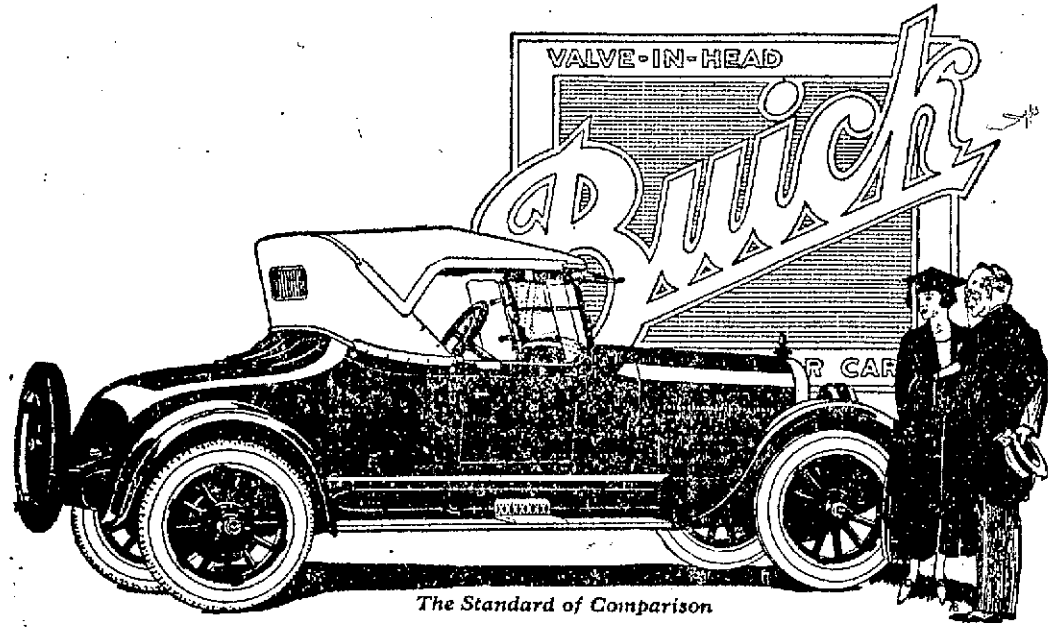

Let us not neglect the little things of life—or business. They may seem inconsequential, but they fit in somewhere. The little things—so carefully taken care of by the Stratford Clothes makers—is why they are the foremost clothes in America today.

Hints for the Motorist

Stopping Hood Rattles

Don't Let Your Car Get "Tingy"

AFTER A CAR HAS BEEN LONG SERVICE, the hood is likely to become "tingy" and begin to make an annoying noise. This may be merely the fault of the hood latches, the springs of which may have weakened until they no longer exert sufficient holding-down force, in which case their replacement will be required, or perhaps the latches only need tightening in their supports in the frame members. Most likely, however, the latching of narrow canvas belting or rawhide, which is provided at each edge of the hood between it and the radiator shell and the cowls respectively, is displaced or fastened out so that it no longer intervenes to deaden any sound produced, when the parts vibrate together. Replacing the cushioning strips with fresh material and securely fastening this in place so that there can be no joggling of the hood against metal or wood, will then be necessary. If the hood metal has become bent, if the front of the frame has been sprung in a collision or the radiator is not exactly in its intended position, the hood will not fit and will likely be noisy. Some hoods have louvers in their sides, with very narrow strips of metal between them which, if bent, may rattle against one another. This can be prevented by straightening them. If louvers are provided for covering these louvers on the inside, during cold weather, they will rattle unless they are bolted tight, with a fabric strip between their edges and the hood metal. Tightening of the radiator shell on the radiator core is indistinguishable from a hood rattle and can be prevented by tightening all the fastenings which secure these two parts together. Occasionally soldered joints in the shell metal break loose and cause noise and the overflow pipe may break loose from its fastenings and tap against the radiator. Of course, if the radiator assembly is not perfectly secure upon its cross member and well supported at its top by its tie rod, not only hood rattles but radiator damage may be expected.

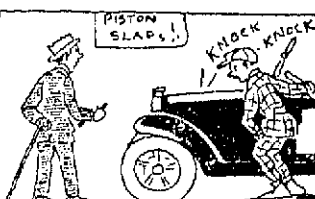

A DRAGGING CLUTCH

F. McN asks: What can cause the rear steel clutch plate of my car to stick against the flywheel, causing the next clutch plate, causing the transmission gears to spin when the clutch is thrown out? I have lately reversed the steel plates of this multiple dry disc clutch.

Answer: We cannot tell you positively what the cause of this trouble is, but have the following suggestion to make: Probably before you put in the new set of steel plates it had become necessary to readjust the clutch and adjusting out of the clutch release mechanism in order to prevent slipping. When you installed the new and properly thick steel plates, this adjustment would be incorrect, and the clutch would not release properly. Obtain a setting which will do away with this dragging, and still insure positive engagement of the clutch. One reason why the rear pair of plates only should drag is not clear, but we think you may be able to better conditions by readjustment.

CONCERNING PISTON SLAP

J. T. S. writes: I am told that the knock in my engine is due to a slapping piston. What is the cause of piston slap and what the remedy for it? If allowed to continue, what injury will it cause?

Answer: If the diameter of a piston is considerably less than that of its cylinder bore, it may be loose enough so that it can "cock" or tip in the bore, when it moves up and down and, in so doing, its edges strike against the cylinder wall and produce knocking sounds. By substituting a piston of sufficiently larger diameter to overcome the looseness, "cocking" cannot take place and slapping can thus be prevented, but it is often necessary to bore out the cylinder to a true form in order to make the oversize piston fit and, if one cylinder is bored out, the rest of them have to be thus treated and also fitted with identical pistons, in order to make the engine balance. A slapping piston does no special harm, but is very annoying and the cylinder containing it generally leaks gas and thus is wasteful and lacking in power. An engine that has been very long in service or has been operated with poor lubrication is likely to develop piston slap.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

In all this world the happiest hearts—most contented souls—are those that dwell in Homes of Their Own.

Love for home and home life are creators for happiness and furnish the greatest enjoyment men and women receive.

Appreciating this, and that real estate and improvements represent the safest, most permanent investments you can make, it surely resolves itself into determination—for it is within the reach of every man to own a home, provided his earnings are not recklessly squandered in dissipation, folly, and useless extravagance.

Now is the time to undertake that obligation. Every day your attention is called to substantial increases in desirable lots and each year they will continue to grow in value. This means the longer you delay the harder it will be to make the start and the more money it will take to handle the transaction.

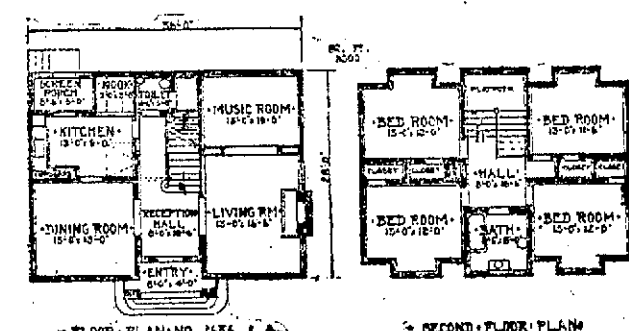

Building materials, too, are gradually going higher. Big investors are not hesitating. They know that now is the time to build.

A Better Home—a Better Day's Work. It is just as necessary that laborers, men and women, reside in sanitary homes, surrounded by best possible environments, as good food and proper working conditions. A prominent manufacturer says: "Speeding up production can only be accomplished by workmen who have pleasant, comfortable homes; solve the home question of your employees, and they will solve your production troubles."

Better housing for wage-earners is scientific management of modern business. Better homes will make better workmen, more modern homes in our city will increase industries.

It is the combined efforts of business that make possible your acquiring a home with small investments, and you should avail yourself of this opportunity to become a home owner.

If our efforts in your behalf make home ownership a realization, then we will be happy in the thought that we have accomplished a wonderful good.

PLAN NO. 1636

In all this world there is no other architecture more attractive, practical or popular than the colonial, and in this modernized plan we are offering for your consideration the best small two-story home ever created.

A careful study of the charming exterior details, all reflecting simplicity and homey atmosphere, cannot help but make appeals and when consideration is given to the ideal division, arrangement and convenience of the rooms you will agree that a rare combination of beauty and convenience void of all unnecessary expense has been created in the home which we hope will meet your needs and be the one you will adopt as a future home for yourself and your loved ones.
